

LAT 201: Latin III (Intermediate Latin)

LAT 201

Latin III (Intermediate Latin) (4 credits)

Class Size: 10-20

Faculty: Jeffrey Carnes, Associate Professor, Syracuse University

Administrative Contact: Kennia Delafe, Assistant Director, Project Advance

Course Catalog Description

Continuing course with review of morphology and syntax and further study of idioms, rhetorical figures, and syntactic peculiarities. Reading and study of representative prose authors.

Course Overview

LAT 201 is a 4-credit Syracuse University course intended for students who have successfully completed two semesters of University Latin or three years of high school Latin. Through review of elementary morphology and syntax and further study of idioms, rhetorical figures, and increasingly complex syntactical constructions the student will transition from reading adapted to unadapted Latin text. Both medieval and classical texts will be studied. In addition to increasing skill in reading Latin texts, students will learn about classical Roman culture and should gain a greater appreciation for the eloquence of Latin prose style.

The class structure will be largely lecture and discussion.

Assessment will be based on class participation, out of class written assignments, periodic in-class examinations and a final examination.

Pre- / Co-requisites

PREREQ: LAT 102 OR REQUIRED PLACEMENT EXAM SCORE

Course Objectives

N/A

Laboratory

N/A

Required Materials

Minkova & Tunberg, Latin for the New Millenium, Level 2, Bolchazy-Carducci.

Osburn & Sienkowicz, Virgil: A Legamus Transitional Reader, Bolchazy-Carducci.

Instructor Recommendations

N/A