About Kimani Beckford

Kimani Beckford works as the Travel and Events Coordinator for SUPA. In this role, she enjoys ensuring faculty and staff get where they need to go, and that everything goes smoothly with their lodging and seminars once they get there. Her favorite part of this position is scouting venues across campus to plan seminars and events as it is a challenge that offers a lot of learning opportunities.

Outside of work, Kimani enjoys joining forces with her husband to make sure their six children and dog don't form a mutiny and take over the house. She also runs a small independent publishing press under which she's penned thirteen family sagas and crime fiction novels and provided the editing for a number of bestsellers. She's currently working on her bachelors in computer programming.
